Chapman Concert.

The music lovers of Norway, South Paris and vicinity took advantage of the opportunity of hearing one of the fine Chapman concerts at the Norway Opera House, Friday evening. The house was filled with an enthusiastic audience, as was evidenced by the applause that the artists received.

Prov. W. R. Chapman secured for this year the Criterion Quartet of New York, who are stars of the first magnitude, and rendered their selections in faultless manner. The voices with clear and rounded tones blended perfectly, making a wonderful effect.

The quartet is made up of John Young, first tenor; Horatio Rench, second tenor; George W. Reardon, baritone and Donald Chalmers, bass. Aside from the quartet selections, Mr. Young, the tenor, gave the song, "Beloved, It is I," and Mr. Chalmers, the bass, sang, "The Song of Steel," and Horatio Rench, the second tenor, sang, "I Love You Truly." These core gave a very pleasing and were heartily applauded.

The violinist, Florence Austin, one of the best violinists to be obtained, has a charming personality, and she gave a fine variety of selections with Prof. Chapman as accompanist, which held the closest attention of the audience.

Near the close of the program Prof. Chapman announced the object of these concerts, which was to increase the interest in music for the Maine Festivals and that this fall at the Festival two of the big attractions were to be Geraldine Farrar and Nina Margara, the violinist.

These are engaged at a big price and will have seats for the Portland concert will have to be engaged by the middle of May in order to secure them.

The program given was as follows:
PART FIRST
"Hail the Trumpet," Dudley Buck.
"The Song of Steel," Spross, Donald Chalmers.
"The Swan," Saint-Saens, Florence Austin.

After the empanelling of the jurors the remainder of the forenoon was spent in taking up the docket and dispersing or assigning of cases.

The first case to come to trial was that of the inhabitants of Woodstock against the inhabitants of Lewiston. James S. Wright of South Paris, was attorney for Woodstock and F. X. Belleau and W. H. Hines of Lewiston were attorneys for Lewiston.

The case was the pauper residence of Donald B. McLeod. Many witnesses appeared in the case, who in general claimed that McLeod went to Haskell's boarding house in Lewiston, nearly every spring during the years 1885 to 1890, after coming out from the drive. He stayed a few weeks each time and then moved on to parts unknown.

The case was tried before the first jury deciding in favor of the plaintiff, claiming that McLeod had not resided in any place long enough to acquire a pauper residence.

The next case was that of Edgar L. Giles vs. Ralph W. Giles of East Brownfield. The attorney in the case for E. L. Giles was Walter F. Perkins, Cornish, and for R. W. Giles was Hugh Hastings of Fryeburg. The case was termed "the horse case," and involved the purchase of a horse, wagon, harness, whip and rug, and $150 paid for same. The claim was to recover damages to R. W. Giles to the value of $100, as he claimed the horse was not worth his price.

The case was tried before a jury of six, who returned a verdict in favor of the plaintiff, claiming that the horse was not returned at the time of going to press.

It is expected that the grand jury will complete its work by Saturday.

NO REASON FOR IT

When Norway Citizens Show a Way.

There can be no reason why any reader of this who suffers the tortures of an aching back, the annoyance of urinary disorders, the pains and dangers of kidney ills, will fail to heed the words of a neighbor who has found relief. Read what a Norway citizen says:

S. C. Foster, barber, Main St., Norway, says: "I was troubled by kidney complaint some years ago and I got Doan's Kidney Pills at Stone's Drug Store. A couple of boxes gave me relief."

Three years later, Mr. Foster said: "I use Doan's Kidney Pills now and then and they keep my kidneys in excellent condition."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Foster had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props, Buffalo, N. Y. 11-12

"SPRING IS COMING."

Beneath the winter's cold, cold snow, The trailing arbutus lies; Waiting for the April showers, And the summer's sunny skies; While far, far in the southern land, Wait the birds that once would sing Songs of gladness and of freedom, To herald the flowers of spring. We are all longing for them: The bird songs of cheer and love, With the wild-flowers sweet perfume, Rising toward the sky above. We are longing for the sunshine, And for springtime's balmy day. When the birds of dear old springtime Bid us always to be gay. —Albert P. Pingree.

HOW WASHINGTON FISHED. Had a Tumble into the Bail, But Hooked a Big Cod.

The following anecdote of George Washington is authenticated by the letter here referred to which is still preserved in the family:

Col. Samuel Cogswell, of Washington's staff, wrote to his wife from Portsmouth, N. H., Nov. 6, 1789, describing the voyage around the harbor, made in the red, white and blue barge, when the first President with twelve other men went to survey the new Government Navy Yard and see New England.

The men in the boat were fishing for halibut, though without success. Before long Washington's line got a jerk that almost upset him. Hopes were blasted, however, when the hook flew up empty, having caught on the rock.

"It let go so sudden," wrote Cogswell, "that General Washington was precipitated down squarely on their bait pipkin (pail), which held clams. He also got hit on a corner of 'Square' Langdon's hat, which resulted by the time they landed, in a black eye.

"His Excellency rose again with characteristic grace and dignity, veiling both disappointment and discomfort in smiles. For this mean trick the gods compensated their mortal favorite by granting him a luscious codfish—the first and best catch of the excursion—just a moment after his clammy downfall."

Bad Cooking is One Cause of Divorce. In the current issue of Farm and Fireside is an article to prove that love and a well filled stomach go well together, but that hatred and treachery are born in an underdone steak.

"Bad cooking is directly responsible for a large percentage of the divorce evil and much of the crime committed—in fact, it might well be classed as a crime in itself.

"A good cook is the greatest statesman in the country in the true sense of the term.

"Bank examining is all well enough for its purpose, but the examining of cooks and kitchens is far more important. Of what avail are our pure-food laws if all food may be ruined in the kitchen?"

"No one should be permitted to cook in any public eating house who has not been examined by the competent, and licensed; and bad cooking—such as now exists in many public places—should be a misdemeanor punishable by law."

Enrich the Soil

Year by year the natural fertility of the soil is taken away by growing crops. This natural fertility can only be restored by feeding nature's plant food made of animal substances.

Essex Fertilizers give this plant food in available forms—BONE, BLOOD and MEAT and high-grade chemicals. They restore the natural fertility to the soil and produce abundant yields.

BONE, BLOOD and MEAT Fertilizers act quickly. They are fine and run freely through fertilizer drills or planters.

Due to the lack of potash this year, reliable manufacturers have either been compelled to charge exorbitant prices for potash or to make fertilizers without it. Essex High-Grade Fertilizers have always grown profitable without it. We made extensive experiments without potash and now offer you crops. Essex Animal Fertilizers that will permanently enrich your soil.

Ask your local dealer about them or write the

WATERFORD.
Regular meeting of the Eastern Star this week, Friday evening.

Seventeen below zero, Sunday morning. Not very much like spring.

About eighty braved the storm last Tuesday to attend the Sunday school union and were amply repaid by one of the best of meetings. They came from South Bridgton, Bridgton, North Bridgton, Harrison and North Waterford.

Horse Racing at Harrison.
The inter-club racing carnival between the Harrison Driving Club and the Forest City Driving Club of Portland opened Friday with a program of three numbers which were completed shortly before dinner.

Irene Mack, the Planigan mare, driven by Joe Johnson and Kitty C. G., owned by R. H. Dane, took first place in two of the three events.

The first number, the Class B Trot, was between two local horses, Harrison Girl and Topsy J.

The feature of the morning's program was furnished by Irene Mack and Red Wing, for although the Portland mare won the event in straight heats, Red Wing forced the pace in every brush.

Despite the bad weather and worst of traveling, there was a large crowd of spectators at the Long Pond ice course before the horses were called for the first race, and in the gathering were included a generous sprinkling of Portland horsemen and fans.

The summary of the morning's races follows:

Harrison Girl, blk m. (Pins)..... 1 1 2 1
Topsy J., br m. (Pins)..... 2 2 1 2
Time: 40.40 40.12 38.14.

CLASS E. PACE.
Irene Mack, br m. (Johnson)..... 1 1 1 1
Red Wing, b m. (Chaplin)..... 2 2 2 2
Time: 39.12 39.14 38.14.

CLASS F. PACE.
Kitty C. b m. (Dane)..... 1 2 1 1
Miss Chickering, b m. (Dane)..... 2 1 2 2
Time: 38.84 38.14 38.14.

The Class H pace which was scheduled for this morning's program did not fill owing to the non-arrival of Checkers and Chapin Hill Girl, the two contestants. The officials were: starter, J. T. Knoe; land, Harrison; judges and timers, John L. Parr, Portland; Charles Kimball, Norway; announcer, Tom McKen of Portland.

People of Oxford County WHO HAVE FARMS TO SELL

I wish you to understand the reasons why it is to your interest to have your farm listed with E. A. Strout Farm Agency.

Do you think you should pay any charges for advertising your farm which does not bring you a buyer and helps an agency to finance the disposal of a more desirable property? We do not.

Do you think it to your advantage to have your farm in the hands of only one agent when more will gladly assist you in listing and advertising the same without any expense to you whatever at the same time giving you the privilege to dispose of it yourself if an opportunity avails itself without charge? We do not.

I think you will agree with us when you realize that we make no charge for listing and advertising your farm at the same time giving you the privilege of withdrawal without cost to you.

Further we guarantee to protect you from all commission on sale of any other agent when we sell your property.

Call and list your farm with us though it may be listed with others or write for free listing blank today.

Great Business Losses Due to Neglect

W. WITHERS MILLER

"I estimate that the business men of this country could increase their efficiency fully ten per cent by taking an occasional laxative and not neglecting the bowels as most of them do."

He also said that if the Department of Commerce in Washington would present each business man in the country with a box of Rexall Ordinaries, it would be of great benefit to the national welfare. Rexall Ordinaries are prompt in action, pleasant to take and never gripe, can be used by men, women or children, and are just the thing for toning up sluggish livers.

OUR WESTERN TRIP.

By Mrs. A. R. Clark, Bolster's Mills. I have been asked to write an account of our Western trip. I hesitate doing so for several reasons—first, because writing for publication is entirely out of my realm, and I cannot do justice to anything that appeared to me so great and wonderful as our country is.

Our tickets covered about 10,000 miles, besides the side trips and sight-seeing trips we took. We were determined to get out of the journey all that was possible in our two months absence. We crossed a portion of Canada, visited the Catalina Islands, went down into Mexico, and visited both Expositions—the one at San Diego and San Francisco.

We left South Paris October 22, 1915, at 9:50 A. M., a bright and beautiful morning, but rather cool. The fields were very green for the last of October, but the trees were nearly bare. As we went up the line and passed into Canada, we seemed to be away from the mountains, but the fields were very much broken by little hills and knolls. There were large herds of cattle and sheep in the pastures feeding. I judge this is a fine farming country, but the farm-houses are not as good as in Maine.

We reached Montreal about seven o'clock p. m., and found we were obliged to wait four hours for our train. After eating our supper we seized the opportunity and took a view of the city, or rather what we could by night. The time very soon passed and we boarded the train at eleven o'clock for Toronto and under many difficulties got into our sleeper. When we awoke the next morning we were at Fort Hope, Ont., and for a long distance rode along by the shores of Lake Ontario and enjoyed it immensely.

We arrived at Toronto about half past seven a. m., and changed there for Niagara Falls. From Toronto down to Niagara is very fine farming country. We noticed large orchards of apple trees, also grape vines and small fruits. On arriving at Niagara we hired an automobile and guide to take us around the falls, both U. S. and Canadian sides, covering a distance of fifteen miles.

This was an ideal autumn day, we could not have had a better one in which to visit this magnificent spot of nature. There were many beautiful walks and parks all about. After seeing the Canadian side, including Horseshoe Falls, Queen Victoria Park, Table Rock, Scenic Tunnel, Inspiration Point, Maid of the Mist, Whirlpool Rapids and the Whirlpool, we crossed the Niagara River into the United States on the Canadian "New Steel Arch Bridge," 1,268 feet long and completed in 1898. On the American side, "wonders do not cease."

A few of them are the rapids on the Niagara River, a beautiful sight, Goat Island, Luna Island, Terrapin Rocks, Cave of the Winds, the Three Sister Islands, the American Falls, 1,060 feet wide, 167 feet high, Cantilever Bridge, 910 feet long. The spray or mist, arising from the falls, with the rainbow, all ways seen, when the sun is shining, is lovely.

We reluctantly left this wonderful place late in the afternoon for Chicago. Some time during the night we entered the United States, having crossed the St. Clair Tunnel, which connects Sarnia, Ont., with Port Huron, Michigan, and is the longest submarine tunnel in the world. Thence we passed on through the states of Michigan and Indiana to Chicago, arriving there about eight o'clock a. m., October 24. We soon left for Denver on the Burlington route. All day long, while riding through Illinois and Iowa, the level and flat country impressed us. This must be the best of the farming country, for we saw vast fields of corn, (not yet picked), many of them as large as our farm. In other fields there were herds of cattle, horses, sheep and swine feeding.

We observed that the houses are not as good as in the East, in fact, I should hardly call many of them houses, but shacks or huts, just thrown together. There are very few barns. The livestock live out in the fields, and the hay is bunched up in great stacks in the fields.

During the afternoon we crossed the Mississippi River at Burlington, Iowa, a wide and muddy river, and later the Des Moines River, at Ottumwa, Ia., a city of 15,000 inhabitants, and named after an Indian chief. Soon night came on, and after we had eaten our supper, the porter came in and prepared our resting place.

When we awoke the next morning, October 25, the first stop we made was at Holdrege, Nebraska. Through this state we noticed the rolling prairies, so different from the states of Iowa and Illinois. Yet there were herds of miles, horses, cattle, sheep and swine, in the fields grazing. Everything seems to be on such a large scale through the middle west excepting the houses and barns. Occasionally we saw a small village built on the same plan, I do not wonder that the windmills and cyclones take them away, as arriving at Akron, Colorado, we were obliged to wait for an hour and a half on account of a wreck of eight freight cars, a short distance below. Finally it was decided we should go around on another road to reach Denver, making us about five hours late into Denver.

At Brush, Colorado, we made a short stop and noticed a large sugar beet refinery and acres and acres of beets, which were being gathered for the factory. On the opposite side of the road were thousands of cattle, fenced off into different fields, which were being fattened by the pulp from the factory. It is said that the waste from the refinery is very fattening for live stock. There are many sugar beet factories in the West from Colorado out to the Pacific coast.

At Brush we passed a large brick yard. There seemed to be more industries here, than in any other place, (aside from farming), since we left Chicago. Great quantities of alfalfa are raised. We did not see any rocks at all, not even a pebble through all the states.

Some time before reaching Denver, we saw the Rocky Mts. in the distance with the sun just setting behind them. It was a glorious sight, and we certainly appreciated seeing the mountains and trees again after riding so long through flat and level country. We reached Denver at seven o'clock and spent nearly two days there. It is a beautiful city, a mile high from sea level, and called "The Queen City of the Plains." Among points of interest are the Capitol Building, (whence two hundred miles of snow range may be viewed), a fine Courthouse, the United States Mint, the Public Library, City and Cheeseman Parks, the Smelters, Denver University, the beautiful homes of Capitol Hill and the new post office, built of white marble. There are no wooden structures.

We left Denver October 27, for the thrilling ride through the Rocky Mountains. It is one I never shall forget. First, after leaving Denver, the train ascended the broad slopes of the South Platte River, through a prosperous ranching country; on the right of us, the tinted foot-hills and the snowy range, on our left the great plains. We hurried on through beautiful villages and country until we came to Palmer Lake, a delightful summer resort, with lake, hotel and cottages. Here is the crest of the divide between the plateau and the Arkansas Rivers. The course now descended amid scenes more rugged and strange than those we had seen before. We were soon in the heart of the Rocky Mountains, on the Arkansas River, and the center of the smelting and steel industries of the West.

Out of Pueblo, the train ascended the Arkansas River, up the fertile Arkansas Valley until we were at Florence, the heart of Colorado's oil region. Derricks project into the air on every side. Magnificent farms and orchards are everywhere. From here we ascended the sparkling Arkansas River, through a gravelly and hilly country, until we reached Canon City. This town is one of beautiful streets and homes. Well ordered fruit trees and berry plots and garden truck abound. Here an open-top observation car was attached for the ride through the "Grand Canon of the Arkansas," and "Royal Gorge." Very soon after leaving Canon City, the train rounded a long curve and rushed into the celebrated canon. Words fail me to express the wonderful grandeur of this ride. The train moved along beside the Arkansas river, so green, which rushes madly on against great boulders, and the walls of red granite and gneiss, sparkling with mica, towering 2,027 feet above us. It was certainly a most awe-inspiring scene. Soon we were in the narrowest portion of the canon and the wonderful "Royal Gorge" was reached. At this point there is not sufficient room for the river and the bridge, parallel with the river, called "The Hanging Bridge," is suspended, by immense steel supporters, buried in the granite walls on either side. This Gorge is called the most remarkable chasm through which a train passes, and the engineering feat was once looked upon as nearly impossible. Still the train pushed on swaying back and forth around sharp curves, affording us an opportunity of seeing many side canons.

Soon we came to small mining towns way up there in the mountains, so far away from anybody on anything. The country all about looked so barren and desolate. We did not get through this canon until after dark, so missed much of the magnificent scenery.

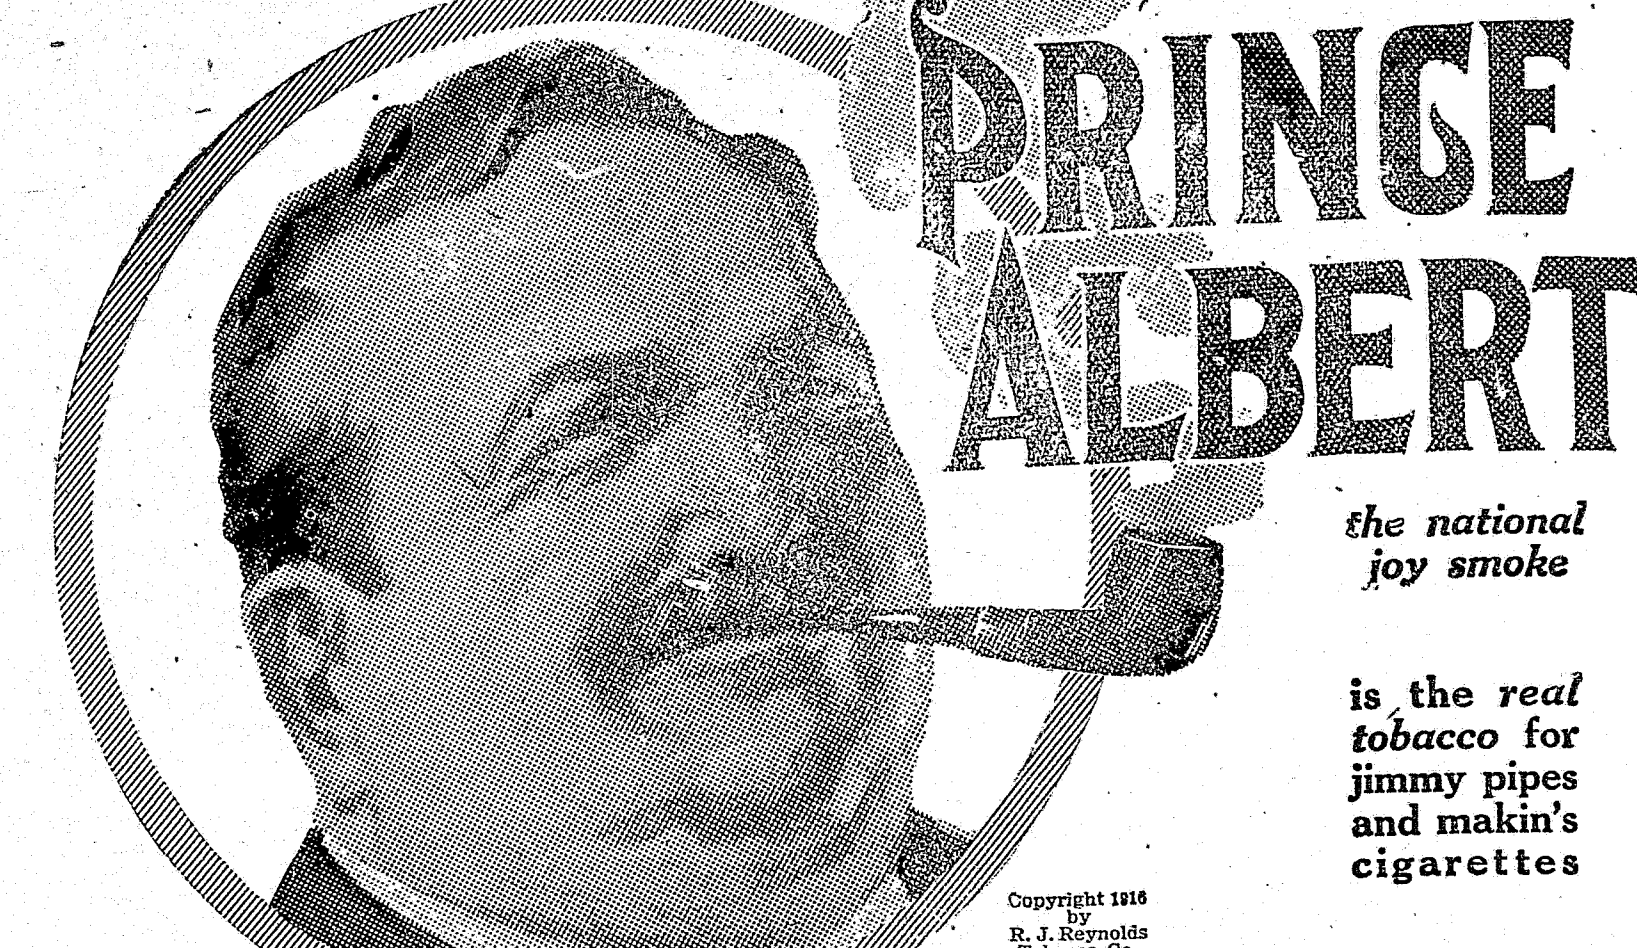

During the night, we ascended to the highest elevation, at Tennessee Pass, 10,200 feet above sea level, over the "Continental Divide." The crest of the pass is pierced by a tunnel, a half mile long, the farther end opening upon the Pacific slope. Here we left the Arkansas River and the course descended until we passed into Utah.

We reached Fruita Colorado, the next morning, October 28, where we spent a few days. The climate there was delightful and very healthful, elevation 4,510 feet. While at Fruita we visited the Grand Canyon, going into the Canon a mile or more. It was wonderful, with the natural monuments and cliffs of red sandstone, so rugged, towering many feet above us it seemed strange to see these mountains devoid of vegetation, excepting a few stunted trees of mountain cedar and pine, sage brush and Mexican grass now and then.

On the afternoon of November 1, we left Fruita for Salt Lake City, a distance of 264 miles. The journey was one of varied scenery. First the train followed down the Grand River, through the wide and fruitful valley made so by irrigation. We passed several small settlements and then into a barren and desolate country, nothing but sand, sagebrush and cacti. On our left was Grand River, while on our right were high and barren mountains, which continue for many miles. By means of a tunnel, lined with cement, the train pursues the Grand River into Ruby Canon, which, on account of its ruddy sandstone, is rightly named. Then the train crossed strange figures cut by wind and water in the sand, nineteen miles long, are unique. Midway in the canon, we passed into the state of Utah, leaving the river behind. After crossing Utah Desert, night came on and we lost much of the delightful scenery. As we passed through the desert we noticed before dark many large irrigation ditches, that furnish water to thousands of acres of land.

We arrived in Salt Lake City in the small hours of the morning; but the porter told us we could keep our sleeper until seven o'clock, after getting a fine breakfast at a restaurant, we took a "right-seeing car," and "viewed the city o'er." I believe it is one of the nicest cities we have, population 125,000, and founded in 1847 by Mormon Pioneers, who had come over-land from Illinois and stopped there in that desert. As Brigham Young looked upon the desert waste he declared, "It is the Place" and within a month after the arrival of the pioneers, Salt Lake City was laid out and named. Now, it is a center of business enterprise, a city of beauty and historic interest. It is also well known out with wide straight streets, one hundred thirty-two feet wide, shaded by poplars, catalpa and other kinds of trees, and bordered by running mountain water.

On our sight-seeing trip of fifteen miles, we saw many places of interest, only a few of which I will mention. We got a good view of the rugged Wasatch Range, which hedge the city on the east and northeast. The new State Capitol, completed last year, overlooking the city at the head of State Street, is built of granite and marble, at a cost of $2,500,000. The Beehive House is occupied by the President of the Mormon Church and Zion House, which was formerly the home of the wives of Brigham Young; now used by the Latter Day Saints University. The guide called our attention to the many beautiful structures and residences, also Brigham Young's monument, and the tomb of Brigham Young in his private burial ground. We passed under Eagle Gate, spanning State street, which is said

FRESH AIR FOR POULTRY.

Thorough Ventilation of Houses Desirable Both Day and Night, Even in the Coldest Weather.

There has been in recent years a marked tendency in poultry-houses constructed of wood to use fresh air, both day and night, by replacing the glass windows with cloth or muslin or by making the front either of muslin or entirely open. Tight houses with double walls are almost relics of the past, even in the most northern parts of the United States. Fresh air is one of the prime essentials in poultry houses, and warmth secured by keeping the house shut up tightly is not as desirable as a lower temperature and some ventilation. A house which gives satisfactory results in Maine will also give good results in Texas or California, but it is preferable to build more open and consequently less expensive houses in the South than in the North. The back and sides of the poultry house should be of the lightest material, and the front should be of muslin or entirely open. The house should be so high that the windows or openings will allow the sun to shine well back into the interior during the winter. Burlap, unbleached muslin, or lightweight duck cloth may be used for curtains in the front. This cloth should be thin enough to allow a slow circulation of air without a draft. This is impossible if too heavy a draft of duck cloth is used or if the cloth is oiled or painted.

For southern conditions, houses with the fronts entirely open are well adapted, and this type is used with success in all sections of the United States. They require less attention than houses where the ventilation is controlled by the use of curtains or windows, but in the northern half of the United States the majority of poultry keepers prefer their poultry houses under control, in order to keep the house and wind from beating into the house and to protect the poultry from the open-front type even in northern latitudes.

A large amount of glass in the front of the house makes it warm during the day but cold at night, as glass radiates heat very rapidly. Some glass, however, is helpful in providing light when the curtains are closed. Some ventilation should be given in a poultry house even on the coldest night. It is usually best secured by leaving a small window open or having muslin curtains in front of the house. If the house is shut up tightly without any muslin curtains in the front there is a tendency for moisture to collect in the house and condense on the walls and other woodwork. On frosty mornings it is not necessary to close the muslin curtains in the front of the house except in very cold or stormy weather. Hens are protected by nature with warm feathers and a high body temperature so that they are better able to withstand dry cold air than warmer air which is damp.

Luke McLuke Says:
The reason why a man is certain that other people are getting a lot of graft is because none of it is coming his way.

Before he gets her she is the girl of his dreams. But after a while he regards her as a sort of a nightmare.

Sometimes father has a hard time making up his mind what to get mother for her birthday present. He knows that she needs a new rug for the dining room and that she needs new linoleum in the kitchen, and it is hard to decide which would make the more appropriate gift.

One reason why friend wife isn't contented is because if you let her have her own way she will want to do something else.

After a man has been married for a while it does not take much of an attraction to snare him from the comforts of his own fireside at night.

There is a whole lot in bluffing. If a rabbit had sense enough to rear up on his hind legs and show his teeth and growl might few dogs would take a chance testing him.

The old-fashioned man who used to take a bath every Saturday whether he needed it or not has a son who always forgets what day the week it is.

Any man is satisfied to be as young as he feels. But a woman is unhappy unless she looks the part.

Once in a while a tightwad gets a liberal spell and takes his wife down to a 10 cent store and lets her look in the window until she gets tired feasting her eyes.

The man who marries for money usually gets more than he bargained for.

The reason a princess knows that the face powder she uses is invisible is because a fellow has to go into a 10 cent store and buy a whisker to get the flour off his coat after he has spent a few hours calling on her.

The will of Isaac S. Skillings who died in Harrison, March 6th, has been filed in the Probate court. The estate estimated at $3,400 is divided between Grace M. A gum chewing girl is somewhat of a pest. But she doesn't aim at the spittoon and miss it every few moments.

What has become of the old fashioned man who used to wear elastic side gaiters?

To find out what it is that a woman wants just think of some article and tell her that she can't have it.

Any old thing will do when a thirty-year-old girl wants a husband. But she hunts for something that is up to date when she wants a hat.

After a woman has been married for awhile she begins to realize that the only man in the world who doesn't understand her and who doesn't appreciate her is her husband.

Once in his lifetime every man is going to hold a royal flush. But when he holds it he is going to be doomed to disappointment, for the other players will be busy "looking out of the window" and all he will get on the big hand is the dealer's rake.

And what has become of the old fashioned tad who deemed it a great honor to shake the hand that shook the hand of the heavyweight champion?

A cross eyed man can't help it, and is entitled to sympathy. But what excuse is there for the man who wears his whiskers parted in the middle?

When she is eighteen she wouldn't think of marrying a man unless he had a place and a limousine for her. When she is twenty-five she is willing to compromise on a husband who will rent her a house that has a big lawn and plenty of roomy closets. When she is thirty she is willing to take a furnished room with a rear alley exposure as long as a husband goes with it.

REV. THOMAS M. BEADENKOFF.
Rev. Thomas M. Beadenkoff, a Congregational minister and secretary of The Free Public Bath Commission of Baltimore, died Tuesday morning, September 7th, 1915, at his home, 316 E. Twentieth Street, Baltimore. Rev. Mr. Beadenkoff had been in poor health for about a year, suffering from heart trouble. He was born in Baltimore in 1855, and was educated in the public schools, and was a graduate of Baltimore City College in 1871, and also graduated at The Johns Hopkins University in 1880. He then felt called to enter the ministry, so entered the Boston University of Theology for two years, and afterwards got his Divinity degree at Yale University in 1885.

His first pastorate was in North Waterford, Me., where he successfully served in the North Waterford Congregational church for five years. In 1891 he became pastor of the Congregational church in Canton, Baltimore, where he served for fourteen years.

This good man with his Christ-like spirit always had the welfare of the poorer classes at heart, he had many ways of "fishing for souls," and was to follow Christ, by entering the Ministry or taking up some form of Christian work; he established night classes in the rear rooms of his church, so gave many poor boys chance for an education, and in many, many instances got them eventually into the church.

His parishioners and neighbors lived in small houses, many of which had inadequate bath rooms. Canton has a fine water front, but it is all private property and could not be used for public bathing without policemen assisting the young men afterwards to the station house. This modern Christian pastor, foreseeing the advantage of giving clean moral recreation to the boys and men of this crowded city, during the hot summer months, thought he would start a public bathing beach, like they have in other countries. No sooner had the idea come to him than he set to work upon it. He tried to enlist the services of many who only laughed at him at first.

However he decided to erect a few crude cabins, chiefly at his own expense, and begged the use of an abandoned wharf and hired a man as caretaker in 1898.

This was the beginning of the Walters' Public Bath System now in Baltimore, which has grown to such an extent that it employs 150 men and women at its many finely equipped Bath houses. Always keeping foremost in his mind the extent of the masses, a few years ago he conceived the idea of using the Gospel Tent not only for preaching purposes, but as a means of cleansing the bodies of the great crowds who could not be accommodated at the regular Bath houses. These Portable Baths are scattered over the city during the hot summer months and have reached thousands of people, who otherwise would have suffered for a refreshing bath.

The president of the Bath Commission has often said these Portable Baths particularly should be called the Beadenkoff Baths, but Rev. Beadenkoff with his characteristic humility would not consent to this, although he is the Father of the Baths.

In September, 1913, he visited with his family, his North Waterford Charge in Maine, his former parishioners welcomed him most cordially and very earnestly endeavored to persuade him personally and through the Congregational Home Missionary Society to return to them and take up his abode in their midst. In every field where he worked there are many who will bear testimony to the fact that their interest in a Christian life began with the words of kindly advice from him, or his humble Christ-like example.

FORCLOSURE NOTICE

Whereas Herman E. Billings, of Woodstock, in the County of Oxford, and State of Maine, died dated in and to the Oxford Registry of Deeds, Book 331, page 54, conveyed to me, Benjamin R. Billings, of Woodstock, a certain parcel of real estate situated in said town of Woodstock, in the County of Oxford, and bounded as follows:

Lot forty-seven (47) in said town of Woodstock, excepting twenty-two and one half (22 1/2) acres on the north side of said lot, also including in this mortgage lot twenty-four (24) in said town of Woodstock, excepting thirty (30) acres off from the southeast corner of said lot.

Also including the following described parcel of land situated in said Woodstock and described as follows, viz:—All the west half of lot number ninety (90) in the west part of said town of Woodstock as lies south of the road over the Billings Hill, meaning hereby to convey the frame and real estate conveyed to one A. J. Farrar by Thaddeus R. Wright and Hannah L. Knight by their warranty deed dated March 2, 1874, and recorded in Oxford Registry, Book 168, Page 388.

The land herein conveyed is the second parcel of land mentioned in a deed from one A. J. Farrar to Benjamin R. Billings, dated August 25, 1890, recorded in Oxford Registry of Deeds, Book 209, Page 504; and this is the same property as conveyed to Herman E. Billings, by the heirs at law of said Benjamin R. Billings, by deed dated February 13, 1904, recorded in said Registry, Book 280, Page 583.

Also including a certain lot or parcel of land lying on the north side of said lot, stock and on the easterly side of the County road leading over Cole Hill, so called, bounded and described as follows: Beginning at a certain Rock on the easterly side of said County road marking the corner of land owned by H. H. Cushman, thence easterly on said Cushman's land to a big maple tree marking the corner of said lot of land on line of land formerly owned by H. H. Cushman, thence southerly on said Cushman's land and land of Albert N. Peck to the corner, in common of said Peck, G. Leon Cushman, and Herman E. There is a Real Difference

Cream of tartar, derived from grapes, is used in Royal Baking Powder because it is the best and most healthful ingredient known for the purpose.

Phosphate and alum, which are derived from mineral sources, are used in some baking powders, instead of cream of tartar, because they are cheaper.

If you have been induced to use baking powders made from alum or phosphate, use Royal Baking Powder instead. You will be pleased with the results and the difference in the quality of the food.

WEST PARIS.

The Cheerful Workers are a class of girls in the Universalist Sunday School with Mrs. A. H. Mann for their teacher. The class has been organized under the above name with the following officers: Pres.—Thelma Richardson. Vice-Pres.—Janet Dismore. Sec.—Lora Porter. Treas.—Helen Packard.

Beside the above mentioned members there are Viola Buck and Lena Marston. They all enjoyed a lovely afternoon with their teacher last Saturday. After the business part of the meeting was over they had a good time playing games and making pop corn balls for refreshments.

Ethel Brock, who teaches at Snow Falls intended to have a box party next Friday evening, but it has been postponed indefinitely.

Rev. J. P. Roberts, the evangelist from West Bowdoin, returned Tuesday afternoon and will continue the meetings the remainder of the week and over Sunday every evening except Friday. There will also be some afternoon meetings and children meetings.

W. E. Ricker has recovered from his recent illness so as to be able to be out some. Mr. and Mrs. Smith of Yarmouth were here to visit them recently, Mrs. Ricker's parents.

Dr. O. K. Yates has begun to feel a little more comfortable.

The Prize Speaking contest was all that could be expected. The ten contestants did fine work up to the credit of their teacher, Mrs. Alice C. Wood. Our biggest snow storm of the season started in that day and to wallow through 15 inches of snow meant quite an effort on the part of all who attended but in spite of it all a good crowd was present.

The stage was decorated in green and white, the class colors with a background of evergreen trees. The class had seats in front of the audience and went up on the stage as their turns came.

On account of the judges, all of whom were chosen from South Paris, couldn't come. Mrs. M. C. Joy was the only one of the chosen three who was present.

Mr. Joy was substituted and for a third prize, Mrs. E. Wheeler of this place. The prizes were awarded as follows: first Earl Thomas Hollis; second to Mildred Helena Conant; third to Carl Greenleaf Emery. All of the contestants did so well that the judges only regretted that they could not give more prizes.

Decision of the judges to the audience and awarded the prizes which were $5.00 and $2.50, gold pieces, and $2.00 bill.

On account of the bad night which prevented a good many attending and the consequent not enough realized to meet all the expenses so the school is going to repeat the entertainment this week, Friday evening, and they will have a social after it.

Favorable reports are being received from Mrs. E. Cole who went to the hospital in Lewiston for a critical operation a week or more ago.

Theophilus Beaulieu has gone to North Stratford to work in the G. T. station. He received a visit from one of his brothers from Canada a few days before he left here.

Mr. and Mrs. Elsworth D. Curtis are rejoicing over the birth of another little son, March 6.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Estabrook and little son of Berlin, recently visited at C. H. Lane's; also Mr. Abbott, nephew of Mrs. Julia Abbott, from Lawrence, Mass., has been making them all a visit.

Beatrice Smith gave a party to her girl friends, the occasion being her fifteenth birthday. A birthday cake with 15 candles, fruit punch, ice cream, crackers and candy was served. Games were enjoyed during the evening.

The week of March 20 has been the time appointed for special services at the Universalist church. The pastor will be assisted by Rev. Harold W. Hawnes of Augusta. Alice Barden will be the soloist and other good things are to be arranged.

The Earnest Workers class of the Universalist church gave an entertainment at Centennial hall Wednesday evening, with talent from South Paris assisted by local talent.

A tea party was given to A. F. Williams on his 75th birthday by his daughter and husband, Dr. and Mrs. F. E. Wheeler. Rev. and Mrs. D. A. Ball were invited guests. He was generously remembered with gifts and good wishes.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Mann entertained thirty-eight guests last Saturday evening in honor of Mr. Mann's birthday. Games and music were enjoyed during the evening. There were eight tables of whist. Refreshments of punch, crackers, ice cream and birthday cake were served.

Clara Berry has returned to Portland for spinal treatment. Her back is not strong enough yet to go without the plaster jacket shell she has to tie flat in the greater part of each day and goes to the doctor for treatment every day. Her case is a long tedious one and requires a lot of patience and fortitude.

A small but appreciative audience enjoyed the entertainment given by Don McGraw's Own Unique Minstrel at Grange hall, Saturday evening. The company was well trained and each member did his part in a very pleasing manner. Special note should be made of the cornet/solo given by Frank Knapp of South Paris, who played the violin solo by Fred Givens of Portland. Lloyd Gilbert entertained the audience with his selections from Grand Opera. The following program was carried out:

"Edith Leonard's Own Raggedy Rag"..... "Don McGraw, his own set" "A Little Love"..... Lloyd Gilbert of Lewiston.

Harry Isaacson of Norway got badly kicked by a horse last Thursday at O. W. Robinson. He went to feed the horse when he slipped on a piece of ice and fell under him which frightened the horse and he kicked Mr. Isaacson in the head injuring him badly. A doctor was called and he was sent to his home at Norway on the afternoon train. His horses are still at A. R. Hendrickson's.

The Willing Workers met with Mrs. Ellen Harriman, Wednesday. There were 16 present including several visitors.

A short entertainment was given and then work was in order of aprons and sweeping caps. Music on the graphophone helped to make the afternoon pass pleasantly. At five supper was served in the dining room, and Ellen never does anything by halves. The table was laden with good things, including ham, sandwiches, filled cookies, walnut cake, tarts and mince and apple pies. The coffee served by Mr. Hammon showed that he knew what good coffee was.

March 22 Mrs. Flora Martin will entertain.

Myrtle and Mary Hendrickson are two of the smart girls of the place. Through their vacation they are making a quilt when completed it will contain 600 squares. They also water and tie up 15 head of cattle and do other barn chores at the noon hour while their father and brother are in the woods to work.

Suits Made-to-Order

Copyright 1916
The Royal Tailors
Chicago-New York

No doubt you buy ready-made suits because the price of tailor-made clothing is too high. If we can show you that your price will buy a tailor-made suit of good material, high grade workmanship and made especially to suit your needs, won't you be interested?

We've been studying for a long time how to combine the two problems—tailor-made suits and reasonable prices.

THE ROYAL TAILORS

have solved the problem. There is nothing wasteful in their shop. The cloth is cut to fit you—no waste; the tailors do their best work without any rush—no hurried work that has to be done over; they buy so carefully that they are not left with useless stock on their hands. All this is economy; the result is our low prices.

The shoulders of the ready-made clothing is nearly all padding that must mould itself to your shape. Stretch your arm and the mould stays behind, showing two graceless shoulder shapes. The mould will show wrinkles, too, even when you're standing still. Compare with a suit made by The Royal Tailors. Notice the flat-lying collar, the handsome shoulders. The dressy fall from the front of the shoulders is an effect that a ready made suit can never have. All this is done by stitching with a minimum of padding, so you will know that a Royal Tailors' suit can't lose its shape.

Come in and see our showing of high grade Worsteds, Tweeds and Serges. You'll get the latest and most becoming styles. Suits will be made to your order by highly paid tailors.
